FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

THE GREATER PITTSBURGH ARTS COUNCIL RELOCATING TO THE PENN BUILDING

December 22, 2009 (Pittsburgh, PA) The Greater Pittsburgh Arts Council has recently signed a lease for 5,500 square feet at the Penn Building located at 810 Penn Avenue, Pittsburgh, PA. The Arts Council intends to use the new location for their administrative and promotional services for their regional arts and cultural clientele.

The Arts Council strives to make the arts central to the lives of individuals by expanding the reach, influence and effectiveness of the regions diverse cultural community. The Penn Building is located in the heart of Pittsburgh's Cultural District.

The building is owned by Greensburg based ROAM Investments, Inc. William Malloy, ROAM Investments President said "Given the important role that the Greater Pittsburgh Arts Council plays in the advancement of the arts in our region, we are thrilled they have chosen to relocate to our building." The Penn Building is being marketed by Burns & Scalo Real Estate Services Inc. Gregory Schuster of Burns & Scalo represented the owner in the transaction and Bill Matthews of Howard Hanna Commercial Real Estate represented The Arts Council.
